METHODS STUDIES SOLOS

FIRST LESSONS FOR THE HARP

By GERTRUDE INA ROBINSON

Comprising a series of graded technical exercises and melodious studies according to the famous Hasselmanns method, and designed in particular for inexperienced players. The concise, attractive and practical plan of the book will prove of special benefit to beginners on the double action harp, and the progressive order of the lessons, as well as their carefully graded succession imparts to them a greater degree of usefulness than is to be found in other existing works of similar scope and purpose. Another practical feature of these "First Lessons" is that they are also applicable to the small (Clark Irish) harp taught in the key of C flat.

Price, $2.50 Net

ADVANCED LESSONS FOR THE HARP

By GERTRUDE INA ROBINSON

The Author following the form adopted in "First Lessons" for the Harp has prepared these "Advanced Lessons," as a continuation of the first book in which the pupil is carried through the fundamental technique and the major keys. The study of the minor keys naturally follows, therefore the Advanced Lessons begin with the minor scales and chords, each of these scales in their harmonic form, being illustrated with a prelude, and enough examples of the melodic minors to give a clear understanding of them. The pupil who fully masters these volumes can never be confused, or fail to understand the fundamental principle of theory and technique. Also applicable to the small (Clark Irish) harp.

20 MELODIC ETUDES FOR THE HARP

By GERTRUDE INA ROBINSON

In this volume the third year's study is covered in melodic studies for velocity and exact tempo. The author has shown much originality, combined with practical experience in all these works, and in this last book has added a second harp or piano score which greatly increases its practical and instructive value. As in her former works, Miss Robinson has written these Etudes according to the method of the late Alphonse Hasselmanns of the Conservatoire de Paris, and has added much of practical and instructive value as prompted by her long experience as a teacher. Also applicable to the small (Clark Irish) harp.

EXCERPTS AND SOLOS FOR THE HARP

By GERTRUDE INA ROBINSON

This solo collection naturally follows the instruction book, "First Lessons for the Harp." It comprises twelve numbers graded in such a manner that the pupil, after a week's study of the instruction book, can take this solo collection in conjunction with the technical studies, or the advanced player can use these delightfully original solos and arrangements ad libitum. Also applicable to the small (Clark Irish) harp.
