The musical score is written for voice and harp or piano forte. It begins with a treble and bass staff in 2/4 time, marked 'Andantino'. The melody is in the treble staff, and the accompaniment is in the bass staff. The key signature has two flats (B-flat and E-flat). The lyrics are: 'The blushing daughter of the Thorn whose tears add lus-tre to the morn each floret that the dew drop laves and'. The score consists of several systems of staves, with the lyrics interspersed between the systems. The notation includes various musical symbols such as notes, rests, and dynamic markings like 'ra'.

Her looks the mimick art defy
 And song can ne'er those charms supply
 Yet those which leave all else behind
 Are but refracted from her mind
 I might as well paint Beauty's grace
 As draw the likenefs of her face
 Oh she is fairer to the view
 Than fancy's &:
